

Indian Society for Quality (ISQ) & Quality Council of India

Invitation

- On behalf of Indian Society for Quality and Quality Council of India, I have great pleasure in inviting you to the 8th ANQ Congress at New Delhi in October 2010. The Conference is scheduled just after the Commonwealth Games will have been concluded. Much of the Delhi Metro, currently under construction, will be up and running. Hotel capacities will have been increased, and we can aim at reasonable tariffs. The hot weather would have been left behind, but the cold weather would not have set in. And, of course, there will be Indian hospitality and welcome awaiting you
- Our ambitions for ANQ are large. Let us make it the most vibrant quality organization in the world - by participating in substantial numbers and by presenting outstanding papers. Our tribute to quality will be to make it a great Congress.
- Taking a leaf from the approach of Japanese Society for Quality Control, we are planning to have the Congress in a new University just outside Delhi, but within the National capital region. In this way, we hope to make the Congress affordable as well as enjoyable. Special facilities for student participants on a budget are also being thought of.
- Come, make this your Congress, a wonderful event.
